Clearwater, Florida

Find out what's going on with our Supreme Court

Sunday, Mar 20th at 12:30 hear law professor Michael Allen, JD. of Eckerd College lead a discussion of the nature of the court, and the meaning of the current political situation as it relates to the court and the fate of the country.

We are a group of Unitarian Universalists committed to a humanistic and non-theistic worldview. Currently, meetings are scheduled once a month and are usually held on the third Sunday of most months from 12:30 pm to 1:30 pm, after UU services.

The UU Humanists are open to all aspects of humanism, including investigation of religious humanism.

Humanists work to build a world in which happiness is the enduring criterion of all policy.

What is the Humanist Way?

1. To extend a human centered approach to the critical problems of life and society.
2. To encourage attitudes of kindness, compassion, tolerance and a loving generosity in human relationships, and in our treatment of all life. These attitudes help us to see ourselves in the lives of others, and encourage appreciation for the remarkable diversity of human culture and experience.
3. To develop and popularize the skills of creative and critical thinking that empower people to challenge prejudice, superstition and irrationality in every area of life. Such empowerment enables the individual to reach the highest levels of achievement.
4. To exalt those artistic and imaginative expressions of life which have been the source of the greatest pleasure and enlightenment, and which reflect compelling human truths. Through music, literature, art, dance, and other expressions, we embrace the essence of what it means to be human.
5. To explore the grounds of ethics and morality within the unfolding history of our evolving culture. Such knowledge will enable us to become effective protagonists for the happiness of the individual person. JP

Laugh Lines Health Care? 3-16

Wealthy Brother-in-law

A man suffered a serious heart attack and had bypass surgery. He awakened to find himself in the care of nuns at a Catholic hospital.

As he was recovering, a nun asked how he was going to pay the bill. He replied, in a raspy voice, "No health insurance."

The nun asked if he had money in the bank. He replied, "No money in the bank."

The nun asked, "Do you have a relative who could help you?"

He said, "Just a spinster sister, who is a nun."

The elderly nun, more than slightly perturbed, stands over his bed and pronounces, "Nuns are not spinsters! Nuns are married to God!"

The patient replied, "Then send the bill to my brother-in-law."

Brother Billy's Miracle

Brother Billy, a traveling evangelist, always put on a grand finale at his revival meetings. When he was to preach at a church, he would secretly hire a small boy to sit in the ceiling rafters with a dove in a cage. Toward the end of his sermon, the preacher would shout for the Holy Spirit to come down, and the boy in the rafters would dutifully release the dove.

At one revival meeting, however, nothing happened when the preacher called for the Holy Spirit to descend. He again raised his arms and exclaimed: "Come down, Holy Spirit!"

Still no sign of the dove.

Everyone then heard the anxious voice of a small boy call down from the rafters: "Brother Billy, a big black cat just ate the Holy Spirit. Shall I throw down the cat?"

Thanks to Jan Eisler for passing these on.

Join the Freethought Organizations of the Tampa Bay Area: Center for Inquiry-TampaBay, Tampa Humanist Association, Institute for Science and Human Values, Humanist Society of the Suncoast, UU Humanists Clearwater, Atheists of Florida, UU Humanists Tampa,* Freethinkers @ USF,* Plus numerous Meetup organizations that promote serious secular discussion and activity about important issues in our area and beyond.

Thus substantive and exciting new activities are offered to the Tampa Bay area that were not possible for most organizations before.

We are especially grateful to the national office of the United Coalition of Reason and its director, Jason Heap. You may recall that UCoR was the major impetus to getting a large number of billboards erected in Tampa Bay and across the nation with such messages as "You can be good without God. Millions are!"

Sustainability

The essence of the term sustainable is simple enough: "that which can be maintained over time." We want our culture, our institutions, and our society to be durable rather than fragile. A society that is sustainable is built to last, while one that is unsustainable will fail sooner or later.

Of course, no society can be maintained forever: astronomers assure us that in several billion years the Sun will have heated to the point that Earth's oceans will have boiled away and life on our planet will have come to an end. Thus sustainability is a relative term. It seems reasonable to use previous civilizations as a yardstick; their lifetimes ranged from several hundred to several thousand years. A sustainable society, then, would be one capable of maintaining itself for many millennia.

The word sustainable is often used, in a general and vague way, merely to refer to consumer products reputed to be more environmentally benign than others. But sustainability has a life-or-death importance for us in an era of rapid population growth, resource depletion, widespread species extinctions, and catastrophic climate change. The term is key to understanding humanity's current ecological dilemma, and to finding a way toward a future in which we live happily within nature's limits.

The attack on Florida women's reproductive freedom is real.

Soon, the Florida House will vote on an overarching bill, HB 1411, craftily aimed at shutting down health clinics that provide abortions, as well as other healthcare.

- Tell your state representative to stop endangering women's health in Florida!

Specifically, HB 1411 would do the following:

- Require medically unnecessary admitting privileges for doctors;
- Bar the donation of fetal tissue to research in Florida;
- Require anyone who refers women to abortion clinics to register with the state;
- Significantly raise state inspection of facilities and patient records, and increase the fees on clinics to cover the costs;
- Prohibit Planned Parenthood from receiving Medicaid funding.

This bill, packaged as a measure to protect women's health, would actually do the opposite. Abortion is one of the safest medical procedures in modern medicine. The Centers for Disease Control state that abortion is 99% safe. The increased regulations of abortion providers outlined in this bill are medically unnecessary, and place financial burdens on these clinics that could ultimately shut them down. <https://aclufl.org>

Meaningful Books

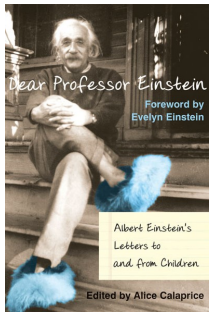

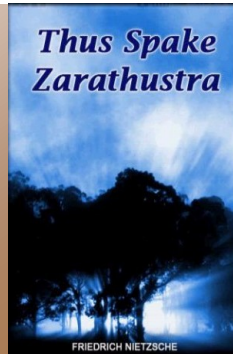

At the heart of the latest work from acclaimed philosopher and novelist Rebecca Newberger Goldstein lies one question: is philosophy obsolete? In PLATO AT THE GOOGLEPLEX, Goldstein proves why philosophy is here to stay – and in fact more relevant today than ever before – by revealing its hidden (though essential) role in today's debates on religion, morality, politics, and science.

<http://bit.ly/1PdEAdd>

In this masterpiece of philosophical literature Friedrich Nietzsche utters the famous phrase "God is dead!" This powerful book spells out Nietzsche's belief in the will to power, and serves as an introduction to his doctrine of eternal return. One of the most influential books of philosophy ever written. Nietzsche writes with style, power, and conviction. A Thrifty Book is a well designed, easy to read book at an unbeatable price.

Obviously, Einstein led a busy life, and so he could not answer every letter sent to him. Nonetheless, he made time to respond to those that touched him in some way. To Monique from New York, who asked about the age of the Earth and when it will come to an end, he patiently responded that it is a little more than a billion years old, and, "As for the question of the end of it I advise: Wait and see!"

Website: <http://aof.ngo>

AoF is a comfortable and safe place in which to find rewarding new friendships, to discover hidden potentials, and make a positive contribution to your own humanity as well as that of others. We are pleased to offer legal assistance with church state separation issues as an important focus. For many people, atheism represents the most focused and powerful criticism of the philosophical worldview with which most of us were raised. It is liberating for the same reason it attracts the enmity of those who are committed to the closed and changeless narrative of unexamined traditional beliefs. JP

March 2016 - 5004 S. MacDill Ave Tampa Fl.

Are you concerned about the upcoming school board elections?

Help Atheists of Florida research candidates running for school board across the state of Florida. We will survey them on their views of state-church separation and the teaching of science, then publish the results so voters can have a better understanding before voting (we will not be endorsing any candidate). This can be done from your home, no need to go anywhere. The first elections are in August, so we need to get started very soon. Just send an email to elections@aof.ngo to volunteer.

Are you going to the Reason Rally?

We are planning on an event the weekend after the Reason Rally – the Reason Revival. If you attended the reason rally, come and share your experiences with us. We will have speakers about reason and critical thinking and snacks of course. Look for info on our meetup site or email us at aof@aof.ngo.

Did you know that this year is the 225th anniversary of the ratification of the Bill of Rights?

We will be having an event in December to observe this anniversary, especially as it relates to the establishment clause. If you would like to help organize this event, please send an e-mail to aof@aof.ngo about your concerns, ideas, etc. and we will discuss them.

HB 43, SB 110

Churches or Religious Organizations: Provides that churches or religious organizations, related organizations, or certain individuals may not be required to solemnize any marriage or provide services, accommodations, facilities, goods, or privileges for related purposes if such action would violate sincerely held religious belief; prohibits certain legal actions, penalties, or governmental sanctions against such individuals or entities.

HB 45 & SB 120

Creating the "Florida Competitive Workforce Act"; revising provisions to include sexual orientation and gender identity or expression and the perception of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, sexual orientation, gender identity or expression, handicap, or marital status as impermissible grounds for discrimination; providing an exception for constitutionally protected free exercise of religion, etc.

HB401

Protection of Religious Freedom: Provides immunity from liability for health care facility, health care provider, person, closely held organization, religious institution, business owned or operated by religious institution, or private child-placing agency that refuses to perform certain actions that would be contrary to religious or moral convictions or policies.

HB 899

Instructional Materials for K-12 Public Education: Requiring instructional materials to meet certain standards; requiring each district school board to adopt a process allowing a taxpayer to object to the use of specific instructional materials based on specified criteria; revising the requirement that the district school superintendent certify that all instructional materials used by the district for core courses meet certain standards, etc.

These and other innocuous sounding titles can be found and analyzed on our website.

Humanist Families of Greater Tampa

Jennifer Hancock started this organization several years ago. It uniquely serves Humanist families with a variety of wonderful programs throughout the year. There is a strong emphasis on creative childrearing. Here, you can make connection with other families dealing with the problems of living in a society that is still hostile to an explicitly Humanist Way of life. Jennifer is author of several books including: The Humanist Handbook, The Humanist Approach to Happiness, and her latest book, The Bully Vaccine.

Humanist Families organizes social outings every month. These are opportunities to do something fun, socialize and enjoy each other's company. Sometimes we go to a park, sometimes a museum, sometimes we go swimming. Our group has grown over the past year to the point we now organize Tampa area outings and Manatee/Sarasota area outings every month.

Throughout the year we host parties like Darwin Day in February, World Humanist Day in June, Freethought Day at Disney in October and Carl Sagan Day in November.

Among our spin off groups, is a Parenting Beyond Belief group which gets together to discuss the challenges of raising children without religion. We are on Facebook. See more at: <http://www.Jen-Hancock.com>.

Thank you! Jennifer Hancock

Florida Judge Rejects CFI Suit against Taxpayer Funded Christian Rehab

“Gobsmacked.” “Baffled.” “Flummoxed.” Words like these accurately describe the reaction of CFI staff to a ruling by a Florida judge on CFI’s lawsuit to stop the taxpayer funding of sectarian rehabilitation programs.

Since 2007, CFI and Florida taxpayers Richard and Elaine Hull have been waging a legal battle to put a stop to a blatant violation of both the Florida and U.S. Constitutions, in which two explicitly Christian organizations, Prisoners of Christ and Lamb of God, have been subsidized by the state of Florida to provide substance abuse rehabilitation services to former prison inmates. Both organizations are self-described ministries and openly acknowledge that their treatment methods are based on biblical principles and on the need to give one’s life to Jesus Christ.

In 2015, CFI filed for summary judgment on this case, given that the facts were so abundantly clear: two churches that provided a Christian recovery service were being funded by Florida taxpayers, which flies in the face of the state constitution, which unambiguously states that “no revenue of the state or any political subdivision or agency thereof shall ever be taken from the public treasury directly or indirectly in aid of any church, sect, or religious denomination or in aid of any sectarian institution.”

Despite these compelling facts, a Leon County circuit court judge ruled that the state’s funding of these religious programs was indeed constitutional, inexplicably claiming that these Christian substance abuse programs did not promote Christianity nor were the services performed “significantly sectarian.”

“A key flaw in the court’s reasoning is that because participation in these indisputably faith-based programs is voluntary, the state isn’t aiding religious activities,” Ron Lindsay explained to Friendly Atheist. “That’s like saying a state could fund a church and minister and defend that practice by saying no one is forced to go to church.”

The Center for Inquiry is evaluating the decision and the current legal landscape in Florida to determine whether it should appeal. One problem is that the intermediate appellate court with jurisdiction over the case has been stacked in recent years with Rick Scott appointees.

CFI to Merge with the Richard Dawkins Foundation for Reason & Science

The Center for Inquiry began an exciting new chapter in its history last week, as CFI announced it will merge with the Richard Dawkins Foundation for Reason & Science, and that its chief executive, Robyn Blumner, would also become CEO of CFI.

In March of 2015, Ronald A. Lindsay announced that he would aim to step down as president and CEO by the end of the year. Having led CFI since 2008, Ron explained that he sought to ensure that no one figure would come to represent all that CFI is. In a Free Thinking blog post, Ron wrote:

I think it is a good idea for leadership of organizations, whether it’s a for-profit or a nonprofit corporation, to change every so often. Static leadership can produce static ideas. Plus, the longer one stays in a leadership position, the more likely it is that the organization will become identified with that person, which, on the whole, I do not believe to be a desirable outcome. Secular organizations in particular should be wary of fostering a cult of personality or of acquiescing in lifetime tenure for leaders. Too often we’re in danger of being mistaken for religions; no need to compound that problem by emulating the leadership practices of religious sects.

And so a thorough search began for a new CEO for the Center for Inquiry. That search led to Robyn Blumner, the president and CEO of the Richard Dawkins Foundation for Reason & Science, an organization whose mission mirrors CFI’s, and with whom CFI had often partnered on various projects and initiatives. The idea to bring Robyn on board along with combining the talent and resources of these two organizations was sparked, and the ball got rolling on the merger of the Center for Inquiry with the Richard Dawkins Foundation

Support CFI–Tampa Bay, Join now to keep informed about our activities, participate in our programs, and become a member!

What was decided was that CFI and RDFRS would join together as equals (neither organization was “taking over” the other) under the name of the Center for Inquiry, and RDFRS would become a division of CFI. Robyn Blumner would become CEO of the new organization, with Ron Lindsay temporarily remaining as president during the leadership transition. Robyn officially became CEO of the new Center for Inquiry on January 25.

This is all, of course, just the beginning. There is much to be done and planned, and the challenges faced by the proponents of science and reason are as daunting as ever. But now the Center for Inquiry can aim higher and dream bigger in pursuit of its mission. CFI extends the warmest of welcomes to the staff, board, volunteers, and supporters of the Richard Dawkins Foundation for Reason & Science, as we continue to count on all of you to help us do more good than ever before.

Darwin Day resolution in the U. S. Senate

December 18th, 2015

Senate Resolution 337, introduced in the United States Senate on December 17, 2015, would, if passed, express the Senate's support of designating February 12, 2016, as "Darwin Day," and its recognition of Charles Darwin "as a worthy symbol on which to celebrate the achievements of reason, science, and the advancement of human knowledge"

Introduced by Senator Richard Blumenthal (D-Connecticut), S. Res. 337 is the second Darwin Day resolution ever to appear in the Senate. A string of similar bills have been introduced in the House of Representatives, the most recent of which — H. Res. 548 — was introduced by Representative Jim Himes (D-Connecticut) on December 3, 2015.

In a December 18, 2015, press release from the Secular Coalition of America, which worked with Blumenthal on the resolution, Kelly Damerow, the organization's interim executive director, commented, "This resolution celebrates the intellectual bravery and scientific discovery that contribute to the well-being of all people."

Tell Congress: Urge Bangladesh to Protect Fundamental Human Rights

One year ago today, machete-wielding Islamic extremists murdered Bangladeshi-American author Avijit Roy as he was leaving a book fair in Dhaka, Bangladesh. Roy's wife, writer and activist Bonya Ahmed, was seriously injured in the attack.

Roy had been a strong ally of the Center for Inquiry, partnering with us to free jailed bloggers in Bangladesh, and writing for our magazine Free Inquiry.

Sadly, Roy's death was just the first in a string of five gruesome murders of secularist writers and publishers in Bangladesh. To make matters worse, extremists have also threatened Christian priests and, just last week, murdered a leading Hindu priest. Further, police have uncovered plans to attack more secularist writers.

CFI has been working tirelessly to defend threatened secularists and religious minorities, and promote human rights in Bangladesh. But today, we need your help.

We urge you to take a moment to contact your U.S. representative and tell them to co-sponsor the Bangladesh human rights resolution.

ASK AN ATHEIST

Too embarrassed to ask something you really, really want to know?

Have an idea you'd like to share, but don't want anyone to know from whom it came?

Have an opinion that's out of the norm for your group?

Well, here's your chance to share any or all of those in complete anonymity.

Just go to Aof's Ask An Atheist page. We do not track any information about you, who you are, your IP address, or anything else. Of course, you will have to check back on the site to see any responses.

Ever wonder what other Florida Freethought groups are doing?

Now you can easily know. Atheists of Florida have a new Calendar: <http://atheistsoffloridainc.org/calendar/> which enables everyone to know what's going on around the entire state.

Florida's provisions imposing flat bans on financial aid to religious institutions is now on shaky ground.

According to Lyle Denniston, the National Constitution Center's constitutional literacy adviser, the Supreme Court has agreed to decide "Does the First Amendment's guarantee of the 'free exercise of religion' actually require states to provide aid to religious institutions, if the aid has nothing to do with promoting religious beliefs or practices?"

The court has chosen the case of Trinity Lutheran Church of Columbia v. Pauley. Missouri has a program of turning used tires into rubber surfacing material for playgrounds. Trinity Lutheran church applied for a grant for this program to replace "pea gravel" in the playground it has for the daycare center for children it runs. The state turned down Trinity's application because of the Missouri constitution's prohibits the use of funds from the public treasury to aid any church, sect, or denomination or religion. Florida has a very similar prohibition in its constitution.

Combined with the Justices review to the latest challenge of the Affordable Care Act, in which religious non-profits institutions that do want any role in the provision of free contraceptive devices and counseling to women employees and students, it makes this term of the Supreme Court extremely important to the constitutional debate.

Compassion & Choices
Choice & Care at the End of Life.

The Center for Inquiry isn't just a think tank—we're a world-wide movement of humanists, skeptics, freethinkers, and atheists, all working together at the grassroots level to advance scientific and secular values where we live.

From social events to educational lectures, community volunteering to national advocacy, CFI members are living proof that there are good, ethical alternatives to religious and paranormal worldviews.

Whether we identify as atheists, freethinkers, humanists, secularists, or skeptics, we all share basic values rooted in inquiry, naturalism, and the scientific method—values that urgently need to be demonstrated and advanced in the broader culture.

There must be a system that can unite all of our voices when success requires our voice to be strong. That system is the new CFI Network

From weekly book clubs and dinner socials to major lectures with prominent speakers, CFI's grassroots groups host dozens of activities every month. For monthly branch activities, look for a group near you in these lists of U.S. and international CFI Branches, and then check out their individual event calendars.

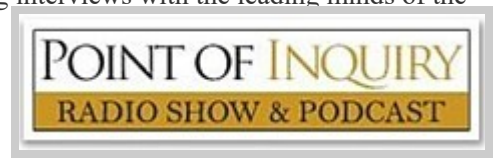

We know it's not always possible to make it to a CFI event, but that doesn't mean you have to miss out! CFI has a thriving online community where the freethinking never stops.

CFI's YouTube Channel

CFI has been granted a coveted YouTube nonprofit channel which allows us to make available hundreds of hours of CFI programming for FREE without the standard 10-minute-content-limit reloading frustrations. You'll find this programming on our CFI YouTube channel. If you'd like, you can subscribe to the CFI channel and you'll be notified every time we add a new program to the list.

CFI's Podcasts:

Point of Inquiry is the premiere radio show and podcast of the Center for Inquiry featuring interviews with the leading minds of the day, including Nobel Prize-winning scientists, public intellectuals, social critics, and renowned entertainers. You can listen to the episodes on your computer, copy them to a CD for your car or home stereo, or download them to your iPod or MP3 player, in addition to hearing the show on a few dozen campus and community radio stations across North America.

This week on Point of Inquiry: "Pro-Choice Without Apology" with Katha Pollitt Center Stage is the weekly podcast and radio series that brings you stimulating lectures and events from the CFI stages at its headquarters in Amherst, NY, and branches in New York City, Washington D.C., Los Angeles, and elsewhere. There's always something thought-provoking and controversial on stage at some CFI location!

This week on Center Stage: Episode 229: "Uses and Abuses of Brain Imaging" with Scott O. Lilienfeld

The Human Bible: The Bible is a book cobbled together long ago over the course of many centuries by regular, flawed human beings, and yet its contents are considered sacrosanct by billions of people. But even those who consider it an infallible guide cannot agree on its meaning! Surely, there must be someone who can help us come to terms with this weighty, daunting tome! Enter Dr. Robert M. Price; biblical scholar, atheist, and former Baptist pastor. In The Human Bible, Price deconstructs and demystifies this foundational book, all from a rational, secular, and non-ideological perspective—and all with a good dose of humor.

This week on The Human Bible: Episode 035: Revelations based on real visions? What does "lord" mean anyway? And women "saved" by having babies? CFI's Blog: "Free Thinking"

Fighting Religious Privilege at the Supreme Court after the Death of Scalia

All eyes are on the Supreme Court following the death on February 13 of Justice Antonin Scalia, a deeply religious and conservative jurist if ever there was one. His absence on the court, as well as the utter deadlock over replacing him, will have enormous implications for many of the issues of great importance to the freethought community, most immediately on the issue of reproductive rights (more on that in a moment).

CFI President Ronald A. Lindsay considers the overarching judicial philosophy of Scalia, “originalism,” and hopes that it is “laid to rest” along with the late justice. Writing at Huffington Post, Ron says, “The more fundamental flaw [with originalism] is to assume that the Founders wanted us to use detailed historical research, or perhaps necromancy, to discern the specific things they were thinking of at the time they wrote the Constitution.” CFI’s Council for Secular Humanism also republished a 2014 piece by Michael B. Paulkovich from The American Rationalist on Scalia’s “Bible-based agenda.”

Days after the death of Justice Scalia, the Center for Inquiry joined with American Atheists to file an amicus brief with the Supreme Court on the case of Zubik v. Burwell. A sort of Hobby Lobby-ad absurdum, religious nonprofits are claiming that the mere act of declaring their intention to opt out of the contraceptive mandate of the Affordable Care Act constitutes a violation of their religious freedom. Simply signing a paper would be an offense against their conscience.

In our press release about the brief, CFI Legal Director Nick Little says, “This ludicrous case is a transparent attempt to legislate from the pulpit. It showcases the intolerable consequences of RFRA, a bad law that has predictably been twisted into a scattershot weapon used by those who want to see their narrow religious beliefs imposed on everyone else. It is religious privilege at its worst.” CFI’s new CEO Robyn Blunner gets to the heart of the matter, saying, “This is about religious employers unconstitutionally inflicting their faith tenets on female employees.”

In January, CFI assembled a coalition of prominent scientists and scholars to weigh in on the deeply controversial Texas abortion case of Whole Woman’s Health v. Cole. CFI argues that the so-called “experts” who had been brought in during the trial of the case to give testimony in favor of the draconian over-regulation of abortion providers were peddling pseudoscience and outright falsehoods and that Supreme Court justices should not uphold regulations based on partisan ideology masquerading as science.

How the death of Justice Scalia will impact these cases is yet to be known
