A Film by Jonathan Miller

The history of disbelief continues with the ideas of self-taught philosopher Thomas Paine, the revolutionary studies of geology and the evolutionary theories of Darwin. Jonathan Miller looks at the Freudian view that religion is a 'thought disorder'. He also examines his motivation behind making the series touching on the issues of death and the religious fanaticism of the 21st century.

This film documents the self liberation of humankind from its own delusional thinking. It reveals how the modern freethought movement grew from the small whispers of dissent from the minds of the brilliant few, to the full throated rejection of religion that is now emerging in western culture. JP

NEXT MONTH...

Our topic will be, Repairing American Democracy which will be based on Steven Hill's book, 10 steps to Repair American Democracy. The book has been widely disseminated thanks to the generosity of one of our outstanding members, and hopefully, we will be prepared to take on certain of the topics in some detail.

We will also have as our special guest, Rebecca Steele, who is the director of the ACLU's west Florida office. She has considerable experience in matters of voting rights, and litigation and will be able to help illuminate certain other problems including the erosion of fundamental rights and liberties under this regime, which has proven to be antithetical even to the rule of law.

For those of you who received a copy of the book, do try to read it and come prepared to give us your own well thought out opinions on these extremely important matters.

Humanists work to build a world in which happiness is the enduring criterion of social policy.

What do Humanists Want?

1. To extend a human centered approach to the critical problems of life and society.
2. To encourage attitudes of kindness, compassion, tolerance and a loving generosity in human relationships, and in our treatment of all life. These attitudes help us to see ourselves in the lives of others and encourage appreciation for the remarkable diversity of human culture and experience.
3. To develop and popularize the skills of creative and critical thinking that empower people to challenge prejudice, superstition and irrationality in every area of life. Such empowerment enables the individual to reach the highest levels of achievement.
4. To exalt those artistic and imaginative expressions of life which have been the source of the greatest pleasure and enlightenment, and which reflect compelling human truths. Through music, literature, art, dance, and other expressions, we embrace the essence of the human spirit.
5. To explore the grounds of ethics and morality within the unfolding history of our evolving culture. Such knowledge will enable us to become effective protagonists for the happiness of the individual person. JP

Many Humanists believe...

-that just because people argue, it doesn't mean they don't love each other. And just because they don't argue, it doesn't mean they do.
-that we don't have to change friends if we understand that friends change.
-that no matter how good a friend is, they're going to hurt you every once in a while and you must forgive them for that.
-that true friendship continues to grow, even over the longest distance. Same goes for true love.
-that you can do something in an instant that will give you heartache for life.
-that it's taking me a long time to become the person I want to be.
-that you should always leave loved ones with loving words. It may be the last time you see them.
-that you can keep going long after you think you can't.
-that we are responsible for what we do, no matter how we feel.
-that heroes are the people who do what has to be done when it needs to be done, regardless of the consequences.
-that money is a lousy way of keeping score.
-that sometimes the people you expect to kick you when you're down, will be the ones to help you get back up.
-that sometimes when I'm angry I have the right to be angry, but that doesn't give me the right to be cruel.
-that maturity has more to do with what types of experiences you've had and what you've learned from them and less to do with how many birthdays you've celebrated.
-that it isn't always enough to be forgiven by others. Sometimes you have to learn to forgive yourself.
-that no matter how bad your heart is broken the world doesn't stop for your grief.
-that our background and circumstances may have influenced who we are, but we are responsible for who we become.
-two people can look at the exact same thing and see something totally different.
-that even when you think you have no more to give, when a friend cries out to you - you will find the strength to help.
- that the people you care about most in life are taken from you too soon.

Our Humanist Society is actively looking for interesting speakers with novel and well thought out ideas on just about any subject of interest to a general audience . Let me know if you would like to recommend a person or organization. Call Jim at (813) 412-1680
